Chicago's four hundred. A prominent furrier of that city, Walter A. Stattmann by name, has just disappeared carrying with him some $15,000 or $20,000 worth of seal skin garments which had been stored with him for safe keeping. The women who were victimized are up in arms and they will mop the earth with Stattmann if they eatch him-they will, if he dosen't talk nice to them and shed tears while explaining why he did it.

Next to his association with his mother the best society a young man can spend his time in is that of young ladies. It may cost him a little some thing to take the girls occasionally to social functions, but it will not cost him half as much as to indulge in stag poker games or to spend his evenings in saloons and cigar stands. But financial economy is the least consideration. The refining influence of young women on a young man far outweighs every other consideration. It is the evidence of such influence that distinguishes the gentleman from the Chairman Hernley has announced the names of the commission selected to formulate and bring before the next legislature a measure to secure city, county and township reform. William Dudley Foulke and Adolph Rogers are named as members of the commission for the state at large. Senator-elect C. C. Binkley and George W. Williams are the members for the sixth congressional district. The state bar association and the federation of labor will each select a member. Chairman Hernlay designates Tuesday, November 22, as the day for the meeting of the commission for preliminary arrangements. The meeting is to be held at the Commercial club rooms, Indianapolis.

The habit of denouncing everybody in authority is generally regarded as modern and peculiarly American. It is neither, but making loose charges of corruption against officials is no doubt indulged in in this country much more than in any other. There are a great many American citizens who can not comprehend how a person who disagrees with them can be honest. Sainted old Horace Greeley regarded his opponents as liars and horse thieves. But away further back in history we read the declaration by King David that "In my haste I said all men were liars." The psalm singer was fair enough to admit that he made the charge in "haste." In that respect he differed from modern, especially American, chargers.
